COMMENTS

Regulation That restricts our ability to experience this national Treasure follows the same paradigm of special interests that killed the logging industry in the USA so now in AZ you enjoy two seasons — Winter and forest fire season. Perhaps, the most environmentally clean way to experience the Canyon is a simple bus or train trip then a one hour flight. These flights leave no trash, no scarring of the land, provide needed revenue for the Park Service and a once in a life time experience like no other on the planet. Please do not regulate away such an important aspect of the American experience.

I support less restrictions on air tours at the Grand Canyon. The air tours are one of the significant ways to enjoy the Canyon and should be encouraged, not restricted

As a European I can feel the impact of environmental fundamentalism daily.
Since I love nature but hate environmentalism, I hope that Americans will be able to distinct between sense and nonsense where it comes to environmental regulations.

COMMENTS

I have had many opportunities to enjoy Grand Canyon. I have hiked the Canyon many times and enjoyed the experience of walking to the rim and seeing the entire vista spread out in front of me. I have hiked down to Indian Gardens. What an accomplishment to be proud of and the experience showed me another aspect of the Grand Canyon that cannot be seen from looking from the rim. I have also been down the Colorado River on a raft trip. Once again an unforgettable experience. I was surprised by the many different types of ecosystems that exist in what at first glance appears to be a harsh environment. I have also had many opportunities to fly over the canyon. What a great way to almost comprehend the immensity of the Grand Canyon. My enjoyment of the Grand Canyon has never been hampered by overflights. The Grand Canyon is an enormous place and the chance to experience it fully should not be limited to only those with the ability, means or time to visit it on the ground.

Stewardship... Stewardship... Let us all focus on Stewarding our natural Resources... A "pro-active", common sense, scientifically modeled, constructive approach to ~~the~~ "perceived noise" management will insure that my "right" to enjoy the canyon from the air will be balanced against my "right" to enjoy "natural quiet" within the canyon ~~environment~~. Using objective criteria (scientifically measured data) existing and future technology and an intelligent, objective, pro-active problem solving approach will safeguard ~~the~~ a Steward approach... Looking up resources panders to selfish, shortsided and controlling self interest! By the way how are we approaching the ambient noise being produced at the South Village, especially at night when sunset and stargazing activities are being enjoyed?

What difference is there between endless rows of cars spewing out exhaust fumes waiting to enter the park and get into parking spaces and a few aeroplanes and helicopters flying over the un-visited parts of the canyon? Answer - the latter cause much less intrusion into the natural wonder. Keep the flights, please!

IN SOME 300 MILES OF HIKING IN AND AROUND THE CANYON,

2) A B1B BOMBER + ITS TANKER (AMULTARY VERSION OF THE L1011), ON A LOW

3) A NAVY FA18 BREAKING THE SOUND BARRIER MADE NOISE OF THUNDER AT

IS NEVER MORE THAN A GENTLE BREEZE IN THE PINES + OAKS

By restricting more flights, the thousands of visitors to the Natl parks are going to do one of two things instead of flying. (1) Travel via ground into the parks leaving excess trash & killing any/all animals or plants that survive in these areas - or - (2) take their business elsewhere. The people whose lives depend on tourism jobs will then be jobless. What danger is flying over our parks? Noise? Make more strict noise regulations instead of banning flights. What good are our national parks if we cannot enjoy them?

I have lived 30 miles from the Grand Canyon for 58 years. I have seen the canyon many times from the ground. It was 2 years ago that I experienced seeing the Grand Canyon from the air for the first time. This was an awe-inspiring experience - without this opportunity, I would have never seen the majestic beauty of the Grand Canyon as well as the many colors and incredible formations. An air tour over the Grand Canyon is the only way to get a full perspective of one of our "7 Wonders of the World."

Please do not stop the Air Tours over the Grand Canyon

I believe that the present level of air service is adequate to view this national landmark. It would seem that job traffic is more costly & less environmentally friendly. The air tour, if limited as at present, would facilitate "leave no trace."
